

Ecuador Amazon 6 Days All-inclusive Tour

During this trip to the Ecuadorian Amazon Rainforest, you will have the opportunity to discover the best of the three important nature reserves: Sumaco National Park, Limoncocha Biological Reserve and Yasuni National Park.

Sumaco National Park and Biosphere Reserve

On November 10 of 2000, UNESCO declared Sumaco – Napo – Galeras National Park and its surroundings Biosphere reserve, only granted to the most valuable cultural and natural protected areas.

There are three Biosphere Reserves on Ecuador's soil: Galapagos, Yasuni, and Sumaco; all part of a global network of Reserves, 380 in total and in 91 countries.

This Sumaco National Park is one of the less known and explored nature protected area in Ecuador, an ultimate frontier for Wilderness.

Limoncocha Biological Reserve

The reserve protects the lagoon mainly Limoncocha a smaller called Yanacocha, and wetlands, swamp and tropical rain forests that surround them. Limoncocha, especially its banks and marsh areas, home to a unique flora and fauna; adapted to living in permanent interaction water-forest.

Here we find a great diversity of species, especially waterfowl, which led to its declaration as a Ramsar site, an internationally recognized wetland of great importance.

Here is the only place in the Amazon of Ecuador, where you have the possibility to observe black alligators at very short distances and can measure up to 5 meters and more. At the corner of the lagoon, you will find a beautiful surprise, something you will never forget.

Yasuní National Park and Biosphere Reserve.

Yasuní, continental Ecuador's largest protected area, is host to impressive levels of biodiversity in the heat of the amazon tropical rain forest and protects part of the Waorani nationality territory. Species records demonstrate this biodiversity for various groups of flora and fauna, species never before registered in any other protected area. Here we find hundreds of tree species, wide rivers that overflow with the torrential rains, and large animals such as the jaguar, anaconda, and harpy eagle. We also find very small animals such as leoncillo or pocket monkey, the smallest primate in the world, and a great variety of reptiles and amphibians that make this park among the most bio-diverse in the world.
