

Cotopaxi and Quillotoa 2 days tour from Quito, Ecuador

This is a 2 days short tour from Quito to Cotopaxi National Park and the Quillotoa Lagoon. The Cotopaxi Volcano is one of the highest volcanoes in the world and a Truly majestic sight. This tour will give you the chance to explore the incredible Cotopaxi National Park before staying overnight close to the foothills of the volcano. The second day, you will travel a couple more hours to visit the Quillotoa Lagoon, an unbelievable turquoise-colored lake.

Day 1

At 7 am, The Guide will pick you up at your hotel to take to Cotopaxi.

We arrive to visit Cotopaxi National Park, where you will be able to see panoramic views of the famous Cotopaxi Volcano. If you are lucky, you will have the chance to spot some of the park's native wildlife. Species that call the park home include wolves, rabbits, bears and condors. There we will have breakfast. After that, you will be taking a guided hike to the Limpiopungo Lagoon, a stunning glacial lake in the shadow of the Cotopaxi Volcano and you can visit the José Rivas Refuge, the most popular base camp for mountaineers planning to climb the volcano. Hike to the surface of an enormous glacier located near the volcano.

Box lunch.

Return to the local hostel for dinner surrounded by gorgeous landscapes and enjoy the hostel.

Day 2

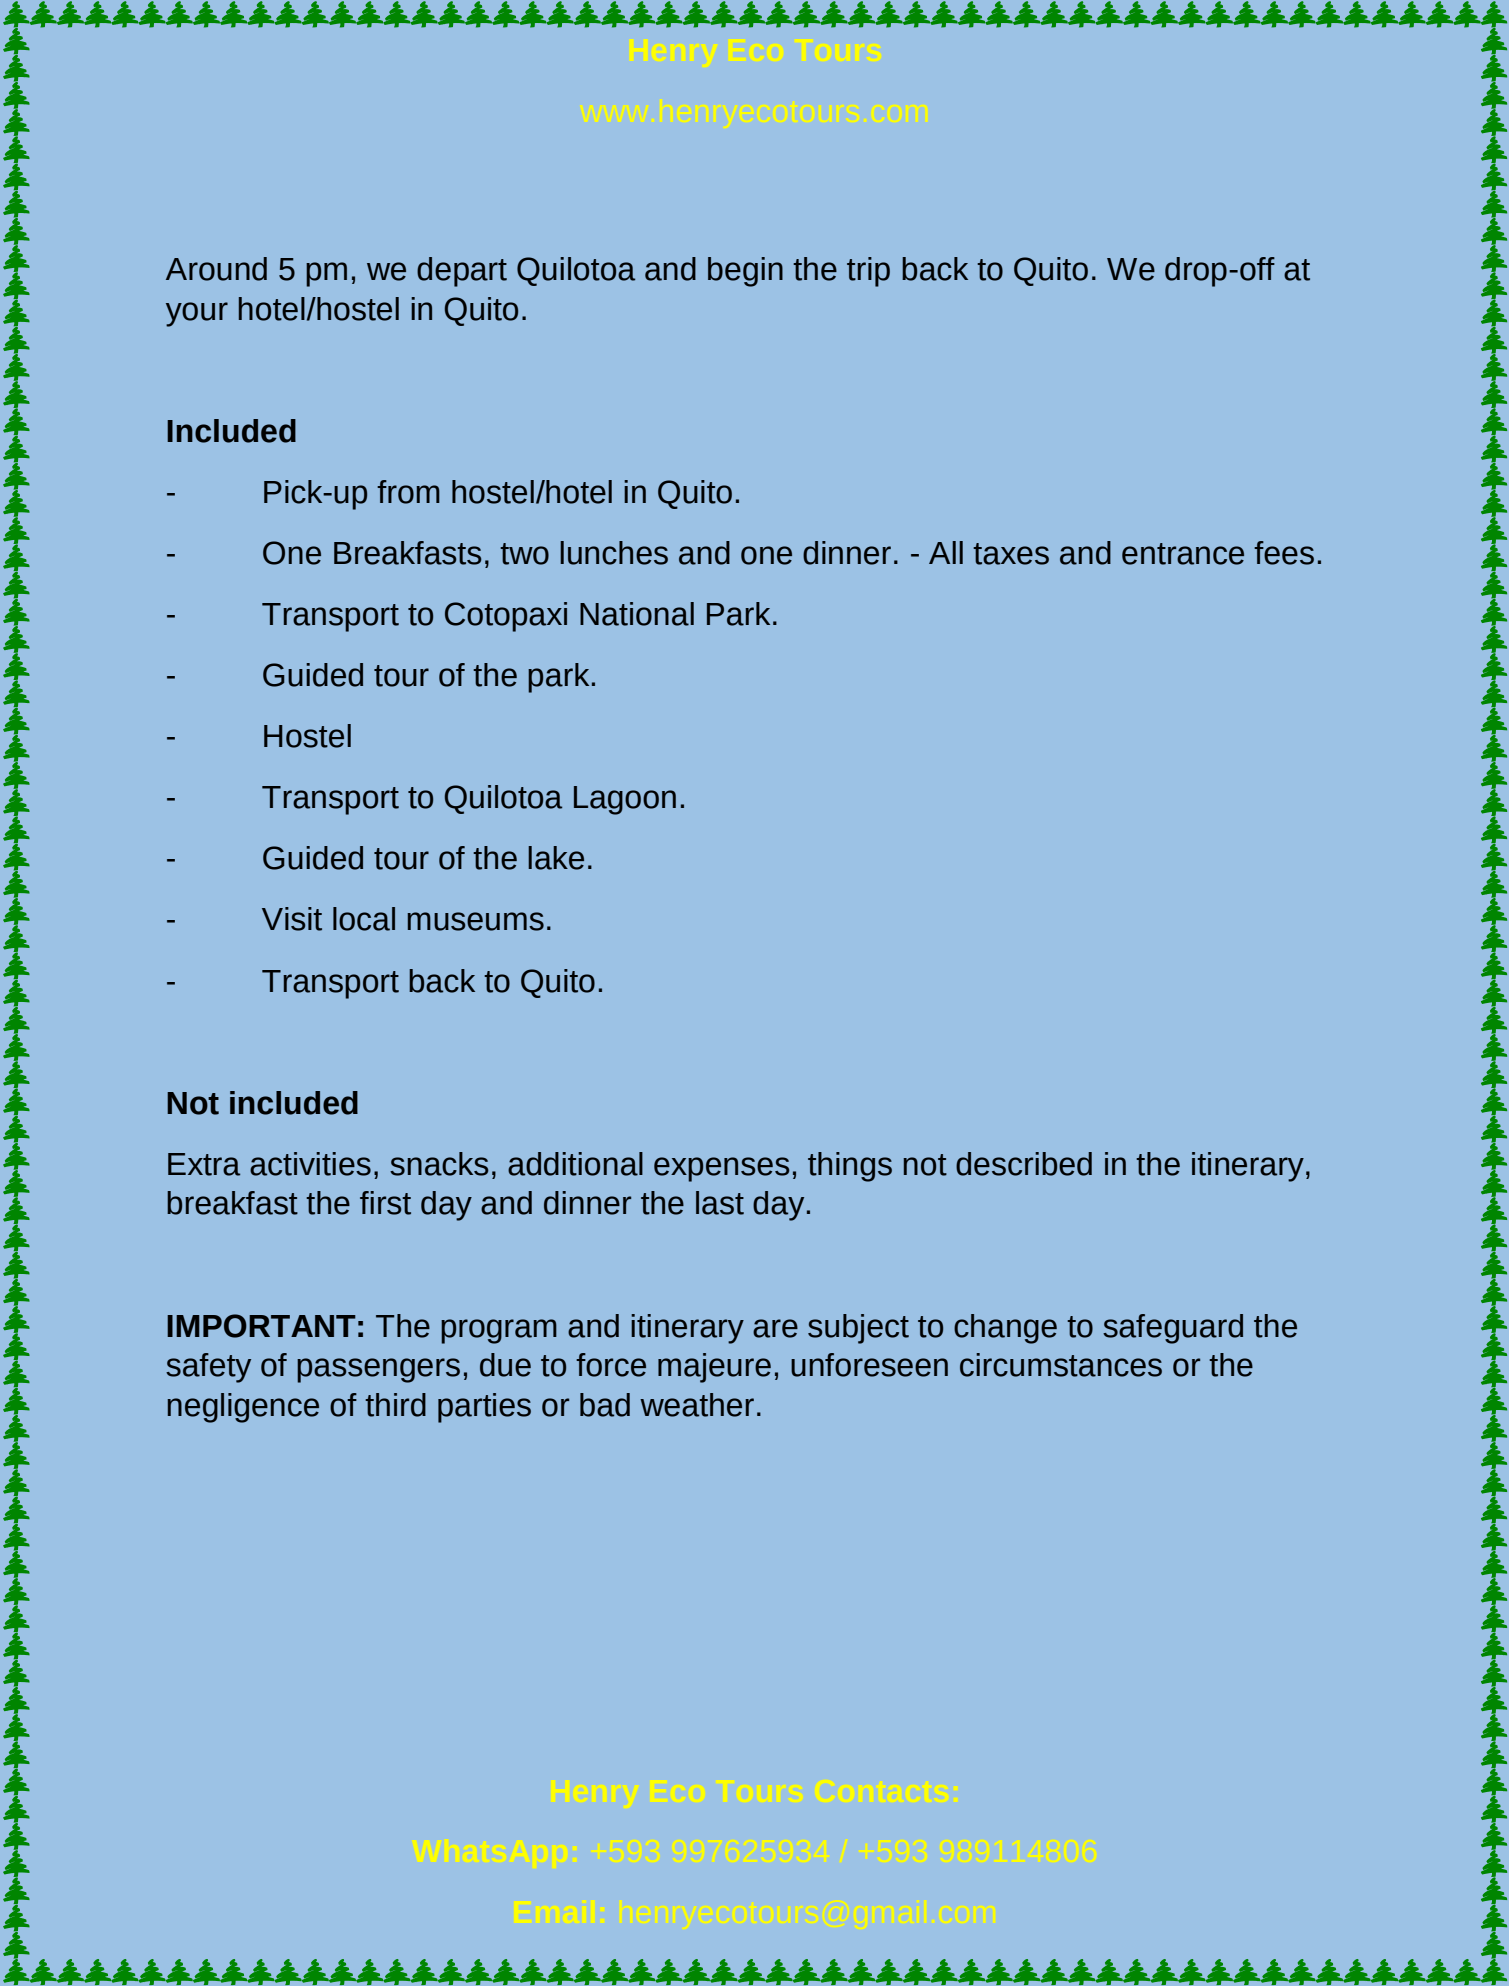

We start the day at 8 am departing to begin the trip to Quillotoa. After arriving at the Quillotoa Lagoon, we will visit the Quillotoa Mirador lookout point for a beautiful view of the lake. Take a guided hike down to the shore of the beautiful crystal-blue Quillotoa Lagoon. Visit some nearby museums where you will be able to learn more about the local culture.

The lunch will be in a local restaurant. After lunch, you will have the chance to visit the incredible Shalala Mirador for some of the most breathtaking views you have ever seen.
